

Sacking in New Zealand
Mr. Mellon Hopes On
Doubly Dangerous Blast
No Reason for Late
By AP Wire Service

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 16

Unpleasant news from New Zealand, rioting at Auckland, 10,000 unemployed enjoying an orgy of looting in Auckland's business district, marines and blue jackets firing on the rioters. Local police powers to storm the wild hordes of men and women raging up and down Queen st., smashing plate glass windows, pouring into stores for pillage.

Such conditions in New Zealand, most radical of civilized countries, governed practically as what we should call "a Socialistic base," interest congressmen who think all our troubles can be solved by "sacking the rich."

In New Zealand there are no "rich" to sack, and those that do adopt a sacking program are compelled to attack and rob small storekeepers.

Our thoughtful statesmen may learn from New Zealand that mere "sacking" will not solve anything.

Andrew W. Mellon, ambassador in London, tells the Pilgrim Society he does not doubt "our capacity to deal with world conditions."

If Mr. Mellon is optimistic, others should be. Where the average prosperous man has lost a dollar, Mr. Mellon has lost a thousand. His property on paper doubtless amounts to less than it did in 1929 by two or three hundred millions of dollars. It is true that he probably has a hundred millions or so left, but if you think he who loses a quarter of a billion finds comfort in some millions left over, you don't know human nature.

Mr. Mellon still has his aluminum business, oil concerns, steel investments, and other properties that made President Harding describe Mellon to this writer as "the second richest man in the world" before Harding made him Secretary of the Treasury.

These Mellon properties and others are intrinsically WORTH as much as ever. But in the present, take out as many dollars in dividends as he once did, but everything that is sound will come back.

The important and hopeful fact is that all enterprises, as the able John Hertz puts it, have been put through the wringer. "The wringer" process is not pleasant for those that once included water values among their assets, but to go through the wringer is a healthy process, as when a fever patient's temperature comes down to normal.

We had a high fever in 1929. Many were dreaming of money seeing visions. Now we see more clearly the way will come UP FROM WHERE THEY ARE, and we shall gradually climb up to normal.

Destruction by explosion of Ohio 14-story state office building, at Columbus, which caused the death of six men. Involves a condition more serious than destruction of property said to have cost six million dollars.

The accusation that the building was wrecked by nitro-glycerine or TNT, in a war between competing labor unions, will worry Mr. Green and other responsible labor union officials already disturbed by the introduction of racketeering among some labor unions of Chicago, New York and elsewhere.

In old days, hangings, and other public killings, including death by torture, took place in public. The horrible sight was supposed to act as a warning and deterrent.

We know that such sights interested those that gathered to see the torture and hear the shrieks. Capital punishment exhibitions rarely increased than diminished crimes.

Our modern civilization, wisely, kills human beings in private before two witnesses and has discontinued torture officially. It is well, however, to point out, after such executions, that capital punishment is unpleasant.

This should be widely known for capital punishment is apt to develop, among us, on a big scale if the present crime wave continues.

At Walla-Walla, Washington, water Dubois, 19 years old, the younger of two men killed of murdering an old farmer, made it clear that he regretted his crime, too late.

As he was dragged and pushed to the gallows he repeated, "Don't hang me, don't hang me."

His last words, as the black cap covered his face, were: "I don't want to be hung, I don't want to be hung, I don't want to be hung."

That was the time to ask Jesus to save him. He should have said that before killing the farmer. That was the time to ask Jesus to save him.

William J. Burns, called the "Great Detective," is dead. He was a good business man and negotiator, rather than a great detective. He knew how to find intelligent detectives, and how to make the regular police use to those that could pay for good service.

He has carried into the grave, and beyond it, interesting advice, some that would diminish important men if made public. (Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MASSIE 'HELD GUN,' SAYS Darrow

Wife Sobs as Husband in the "Honor Slaying" Takes the Blame; to Plead Insanity

By JAMES ADAM

Honolulu, April 16 (INS)—Lieut. Thomas H. Maasie held the gun that shot and killed E. ("Bad Willie") Gray and John Foley was given to the jury.

Darrow's sensational although anticipated statement came when Judge Charles S. Davis inquired if it was the intention of the defense to show that Louis Maasie was insane at the time of the "honor killing."

In reply Darrow made his announcement that "Louis Maasie would assume blame for the killing and would plead "emotional insanity."

MASSIE PALE, SHAKEN

Shaken by Darrow as the killer, Maasie proceeded slowly, haltingly, and looked very small as he sat in the high-backed pious chair. He clasped and unclasped his hands, nervously and his mouth twisted as he gazed at the floor.

Maasie, with one foot resting on a slightly raised platform, the aged Darrow gentle drew the story from the witness.

In a front row seat Mrs. Gravitte Eyracuse, Maasie's mother-in-law and co-defendant, resumed her weeping. The other defendants, continued on Page 5, Column 2

7500 SEE BUTH PLAY RED SOX

Fenway Park, April 16—Bats Ruth and the other famed New York Yankees made their first appearance of the season this afternoon.

A crowd of about 7500, the largest to date saw his battle. Manager Shone Collins selected Danny McFadden to give the Sox their first 1932 win, while the valiant Eyracuse, Maasie's mother-in-law, gave the Sox their first "win" as a southpaw, making his first start of the year.

FROM ICE SPORT TO ALTAR

GRAY TRIAL

Charges of tampering with witnesses were made to Judge Sisk in superior court today by Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle, after the case of William E. ("Bad Willie") Gray and John Foley was given to the jury.

Doyle told the court that two attempts were made to make witnesses forget testimony and Judge Sisk replied that before considering action, he would like to have the allegations made directly by Dist. Atty. Foley.

The jury retired for deliberations on the two defendants at 12:35 after Gray had left the prisoners' cage to look straight into the faces of the jurors and make his last defensive plea on the holdup and shooting charges.

GRAY ADMITS 2 CRIMES

Leaving on the rail in front of the jury box, chewing gum, Gray said: "I am not guilty of the assault on Thomas Arntsen [the Alton slayer], but I am guilty of the other judgments—well, gentlemen of the jury, you heard the evidence."

Gray is charged with assault on Arntsen, carrying a gun and assault with intent to kill Philip Sweeney, railroad policeman, who was in the store during the holdup attempt. Foley is charged with participating in the same offense.

It was learned, after Doyle's statement to Judge Sisk today that Russell Yates of Alton, a witness, had gone to the district attorney and declared a railroad employee and co-defendant, resumed her weeping. Robert E. Ryan continued on Page 5, Column 2

HOOPER FILES IN MARYLAND

Annapolis, Md., April 16 (AP)—President Hoover today filed a certificate of candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, to precipitate a clean cut primary fight between himself and former Senator Joseph I. Vance of Maryland for the 19 votes in the national convention.

Hoover, in addition to assaying a comeback in the fighting game, is said to be fellow workers look him home in a street department truck.

Excitement. Robert E. Ryan declared Woods died from heart trouble that has bothered him several years.

U.S. CHECKING ALL CRAFT ON 'THE ROW'

One Off No Man's Land Is Under Surveillance by a U. S. Destroyer

Latest Developments

1—The Boston Evening American learned today that Treasury Department secret service agents aboard Coast Guard boats have made a check of vessels on Rum Row from Cape May, N. J., to Cape Ann, Gloucester, in connection with the Lindbergh case.

Nineteen vessels, all of Canadian registry, are on the row. Three of them have been there since about March 1, the date of the kidnapping.

2—"A straw man" for a Cape Cod rum ring is sought as the author of an "important" letter sent to Col. Lindbergh. An unidentified plane flew again last night over the Cuttyhunk waters, which was to have been the rendezvous for return of the baby.

Twenty Boston police and six Customs officers searched a steamer arriving in Boston from Halifax for Harry Fleischer.

3—in Fall River, federal agents sought Thomas Swords, 30, of Assonet, who, according to a sailor, said he knew something about the kidnapping.

ALL Greater Boston police were notified by teletype late today to be on watch for the Lindbergh baby, in the company of two men, on a tunnel train. Robert Purnall, of Wollaston, reported at Station 2 he saw the baby with two men on a train bound for Ashmont. At police headquarters he viewed pictures of the kidnapped child and said he was positive of his identification.

BULETTIN

New York, April 16 (AP)—Col. Henry Breckinridge, legal adviser to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, called today on Dr. J. P. Condon, the "father" of the Lindbergh kidnap case, and the two left for an unannounced destination.

Alicia Rodgers Weds Italian Noble, Says New Report

Boston's "400" were confronted today by a real matrimonial brain-twister.

It related in the international romance of Miss Alicia Rodgers, vivacious sub-deb of Hamilton and Washington, granddaughter of Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Sr., and Marchese Lorenzo Solari, a dashing young Italian nobleman with whom Miss Rodgers was reported to have eloped last month.

Rumors were persistent in Boston and New York today that, despite repeated denials by relatives in Italy, the couple had been secretly married.

A report was in circulation in New York that Mrs. Rodgers, daughter of the late Mrs. Meyer, of this city, had admitted in Rome that they were married, but that her husband, Philip Owen Corbin, a millionaire telephone magnate, had denied it with equal emphasis.

All of which left society on this side of the pond very much in doubt.

AUNT IN DENIAL.

Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Jr., of 54 Beacon st., Alicia's Rodgers aunt by marriage, said:

"Alicia is not married. You can say that positively on the word of her aunt. There is no truth to such reports."

European and American newspapers published reports last month that Miss Rodgers and Marchese Solari had eloped and that the Italian police and the hon-

SACRIFICED HER LIFE TO NO HUSBAND

Plunges From Hospital So He Might Be Free to Rejoin Kin and Get a Job

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Paris, April 15 (INS)—The supreme sacrifice of a young Japanese woman who committed suicide so her American husband could join his relatives in the United States was revealed here this afternoon.

The woman was the wife of A. W. Agerman, 26, son of a clergyman at Gold Beach, Ore. She was 23 years old.

The woman leaped to her death from the fourth floor of a clinic in Neuilly, a suburb of Paris, where she was undergoing treatment for a serious illness. She was married to Angel in Japan several years ago, while he was doing missionary work. They came to Paris after Angel had made unsuccessful efforts to take his wife to the United States and was in desperate need.

HUSBAND OUT OF WORK

Mrs. Angel was barred from entering the United States because of her nationality. For the past few months, Angel had made desperate attempts to obtain employment here, disdaining his wife's pleas that he return to the United States and leave her in Paris.

Angel refused to leave his wife. His father continued his efforts to obtain her entry, and early this week notified Angel by cable of the failure of his efforts.

Believing Angel told his wife of the final decision, she learned that he owed 6000 francs to the clinic and was in desperate need. SEEMED GAY AND HAPPY

At 8:30 this morning, Angel, a missionary, came to the clinic to visit his wife. She seemed gay and happy and told him not to worry that she would soon get well and that some avenue of employment would soon open to him.

Angel, the clerk by the front door, whistling and happy over his wife's philosophy in the face of tragedy, almost the same moment, Mrs. Angel plunged to her death from her room in the rear of the building.

FREIGHTER COMBED IN KIDNAP HUNT

The steamship Fernfield from Halifax being searched on its arrival in Boston today by Harry Fleisher, kidnap gangster, sought for questioning ever since the Lindbergh baby was abducted on March 1. The holds were thrown open and the cargo searched by a force of 20 Boston policemen and six customs officers. Fleisher had been traced to Nova Scotia and was thought to have stowed away on the Fernfield. (Staff photos.)

RUSH TO RESCUE FLAMING SHIP

Cape May N. J., April 16 (INS)—No trace of the vessel reported missing 10 miles off the Cape May jetty has been found. Comdr. Gordon MacLane of the local coast guard boat reported today.

Five ships are combing the area in widespread search for the flaming ship. They reported no success early today.

The searching ships are the destroyers Rush and Hunt, the 100-foot coast guard cutter Thetis and two patrol boats.

First information of the blazing ship came from a fisherman returning to port.

Well Used When Spot Pond Went Bad Now Found 'Polluted'

With the water of Spot pond back to normal, State inspectors of health today started a campaign on Middlesex Falls springs that residents had used to seep the "fishy" taste of the pond supply.

The chief prefaced the order with the remark that with warmer weather Spot pond will be a haven for "couples who want to park their eyes on the beach and not on police interference."

Rabbit Foot Backed by Big Gun

Released from Salem jail yesterday, where he had served a term for non-support, Al Hansen of Portland, Me., was captured by Patrolman Mearns as he was leaving a Washington st. chain store in this city early today.

He was charged with armed robbery after police found a 45 rabbit foot in his possession.

He had taken several leaves of bread and a quart of milk from the store, police say.

BONUS ISSUE ERROR—YOUNG

Washington, April 16 (AP)—Owen D. Young today telegraphed Representative Pittman (D., Texas) that while favoring an increase in money volume he does not consider printing currency to cash the soldiers' bonus a "sound and helpful" method.

Young's telegram, in reply to one from Pittman, said, in part:

"While I believe that an increase in our money volume, which includes bank credit as well as currency, is essential to increase our commodity prices, and therefore helps to drive out of business the foreigner, I do not think that the printing of money and the distribution of it in payment of service certificates is the sound and helpful way to increase our money volume."

3 HOLD UP "L" CAR IN EVERETT

While two passengers were held at the point of guns, three gunmen robbed a street car today on Woodlands ave., Everett, and escaped with $25 they got from Patrick Flanagan, the motorman.

The train boarded the car as it neared the Chelsea line.

Flanagan, 40, who lives at 31 Spring st., Everett, turned to accept the fare of the three and was seized by the muzzle of revolvers.

One gunman covered the two passengers, another kept a revolver pressed against Flanagan and the third rifled the motorman's pockets and change carrier.

Then they ordered Flanagan to "drive on," and hopped off.

Nothing was taken from the passengers.

Senator Davis Accused of Attacking Critic

Boston, Pa., April 16 (AP)—Jay Anderson Cox, candidate for delegate to the Republican National convention, who, in the Pinchot ticket, today declared that United States Senator James J. Davis seized him by the coat and shook him when Cox asked Davis how he stood on the soldiers' bonus.

Howard A. Lehman, Republican chairman of Bethlehem, who is supporting Davis, said:

"I am sure that Senator Davis would not say he had not been seized by the coat and shaken when he was asked how he stood on the soldiers' bonus."

DEWOLF GIRL IS SECRET BRIDE OF AGNEW

Ely Secretary's Daughter and Adjutant-General Wed on Eve of Nuptial Date

What was to have been an elaborate wedding today on the Chester estate of DeWitt C. DeWolf, Governor Ely's secretary, turned into a surprise when it was announced DeWolf's daughter and Adj.-Gen. John H. Agnew were secretly married yesterday.

Virginia DeWolf, one of the secretary's four daughters, wedded Gen. Agnew in the rectory of St. Bridget's Church, Framingham, with Rev. Michael O'Connor, Yankee Division chaplain, officiating.

The father of the bride learned of the ceremony by telegram from New York today, although Miss Louise DeWolf, another daughter, had attended her sister's wedding. The father was a teacher at William Harrison, aide to Gov. Ely, was best man.

The newlyweds dined at a Worcester hotel and left early today by motor for New York. They plan also to visit Washington.

"They just decided to get married. There was no special reason for the advance ceremony," the bride's sister said today.

The father was too busy notifying guests to pause for comment. Miss DeWolf was a teacher at Brookline Junior High School.

Adj.-Gen. Agnew formerly lived in Lynn. He received his army training at Ft. Leavenworth and the Army War College.

The couple plan to make their temporary home at Hotel Bellevue upon their return here in about a week.

Elopes Day Ahead

Mrs. John H. Agnew, yesterday, before her elopement, today, a day ahead of time set for her wedding today to Adj.-Gen. Agnew, was Miss Virginia DeWolf, daughter of Gov. Ely's secretary.

NO MATTER HOW BLASE ONE MAY BE ABOUT ROYALTY in general, there is a bit of a thrill in meeting a real princess! The Princess Catherine Radziwill of Russia told a large and appreciative audience some really charming anecdotes about Royal Personages She Has Known at the Copley-Plaza yesterday . . .

While not in the Springtime of Life, the Princess still retains the spark which made her one of the most brilliant women in the courts of Europe, and she speaks English with a soft broken accent most delightful to listen to . . .

MRS. ALVAN T. FULLER POURED . . . SHE WORE THE most attractive chapeau, quite large for this season, in black straw with a broken line, on the front of which perched two cunning crystal birds . . . you know crystal trimmings are most modish this season.

A delightful lady was sitting with her, Mrs. Thomas A. Watson, and we were so interested to know that her illustrious husband, Thomas A. Watson, was co-inventor with Dr. Bell of the United States to Europe, Mr. Watson was the first voice to be heard over the wires. He was the first telephone engineer . . . and we were told he does all sorts of things, such as painting and sculpturing, play-acting, writing quite as well.

MRS. ROBERT HOFFMAN
"A clever little fellow, who does a minute than most people do in a week . . . also presided for a while at the coffee tables . . ."

Also Presided
JUNIOR LEAGUE GIRLS assisted at the morning coffee, and we were so pleased to meet Julia Jenkins, one of the best of our club, again. She is tall, dark and pretty and with recent Katherine Harrington's blonde, they made an attractive pair . . .

DODD DEAN OF THE season's peepers, and Mary Jane Higgins also were the simple white tennis dress which made them as servers . . .

Youthful and Chic
AMONG THE SURPRISES of the morning was the meeting of Mrs. Bernard Stevenson and her daughter, Miss Lela Stevenson. She is a girl of last season . . . the year before? . . . We were so amazed when she said she was Elizabeth's mother, we hope she didn't keep loud . . . She is a . . . you can never tell in these days.

MRS. MARIAN HIGGINS, mistress of ceremonies, was smart in black and white, chatting Spanish with a South American lady who looked very smart in lipstick red with silver fox fur.

BOOKS—and a Number of Things

By Charles Hanson Towne

THE LAST SLEEP
Some shining April I shall be asleep
And over me the ancient Joy shall pass
I shall not see young spring dance down the world
With ribbons of green grass,
But I shall dream of all that I have lost—
Breath of the wind, immortal love,
Wild beauty of the sunlight on the snow
How mine no less
Because I remember, Nay, but more than mine.
Bliss of a part of them shall strangely be.
Only I ask, when the pink have faded,
That one shall think of me.

Upton Sinclair says that for many years requests have been coming to him—mainly from abroad—to write an autobiography. And so he has done it, though he is far from an "old man," and he is getting a home he tried to convince him with the solving of a problem to his followers.
"Religion Hall" came to life—a cooperative home where people could live in comfort, with a common kitchen and dining room. It stood on the heights in back of the Palisades, overlooking Englewood, N. J. From November, 1916, to March, 1917, the young dreamer of Upton lived according to his dreams. He had his broken down, and of these he had a little humor. The whole thing was a failure. He had a little humor. The whole thing was a failure. He had a little humor. The whole thing was a failure.

MAJOR CARRIES MESSAGE INTO WESTFIELD

BY BERNARD J. DOWNEY
Major Curley will carry the battle for Roosevelt into Westfield tonight, the home city of Governor Smith.

Rail rallies will also be staged in Hallowell and Chippewa, speakers to include James Roosevelt, son of the New York governor. Governor's Council, James J. Brennan, Thomas Cassidy and a host of others.

Although a report from New York has it that the Governor will not appear at the Westfield rally, whether he will come to Manchester and make an address is the subject of the Smith delegates here.

Daniel Cuskey, who confers with Smith over the week-end, says he does not expect that the 1932 presidential standard bearer will visit in Manchester. That Smith would be brought into the State for at least one address next week in a "desperate attempt to save the hide" of Governor Curley, Senator Walsh and other bigwigs who have cast their lot with the fortunes of the former New York chief executive, was suggested by Smith.

The mayor predicted that "the trip would be in vain."

SMITH SPEECH HERE IN DOUBT

New York, April 16 (AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith is scheduled to make his appearance at the annual rally of the voters of the State, but it is believed that he will not appear.

Both states will have preferential primaries on April 26. Smith's address at the appearance in these states would greatly increase the number of delegates to the Democratic National Convention. It was believed that if Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt received a majority of the vote of these two states, his nomination would be a foregone conclusion.

Massachusetts has 36 votes and Pennsylvania 18.

PARTY CHIEFS MEETING BALLY

While U. S. Senator David I. Walsh is scheduled to make his appearance at the annual rally of the voters of the State, it is believed that he will not appear.

The imposing array of speakers for the occasion, which includes Senator Walsh, Governor Ely, former Governor Charles F. Fitzgerald, Congressman Conner of Lynn, McCormack of South Boston, Grandfather of East Boston, and a host of other bigwigs, will be a formidable one.

Tre to Type 403 STOCK CYPERS PROVE GOOD TIMES ARE HERE

By GILBERT SELDES

I HAVE SUGGESTED before that our present state is impregnable called a depression. It is only prosperity, new style, and what we have to do is not find a cure for it, but get used to it. An English economist has said that the industrial depression which was due, and arrived in 1929 (preceding the break in the market, but not so well advertised), would have come to its appointed end long ago if it hadn't met in 1930 a financial smash, which would it all up again. Mr. Richard Whitney, the president of the New York Stock Exchange, announced before a senatorial committee that the first two weeks in April experienced another of these financial whirlwinds, causing a shrinkage of six billion dollars in the value of stocks and bonds, and Wall Street experts now apply the sacred name of blue chip stocks to anything selling for over a hundred dollars. How well I remember the day when a great financier told us that blue chips would consider fifteen hundred dollars normal.

GILBERT SELDES

Bold, Confident Men

In spite of all this, I am encouraged in my private life that normalcy is here by the activities of no less than four hundred and three financial experts who, in the first quarter of 1932, were put out of business as stockholders. With old-time blue chips selling in two figures and dozens of stocks going into the penny market, these four hundred and three individuals were so convinced that prosperity is here that they actually went to the trouble of discovering totally worthless stocks to sell to the public. I call them financial experts because I think it would take an expert to distinguish between one kind and the other. And another proof of our normal prosperity is that they found people to buy what they had to sell.

Whom to Ask

State Atty.-Gen. John J. Bennett, Jr., of New York, who announced investigations against the racketeers, repeated his warning. "If people would consult their lawyers and bankers before investing in unknown securities . . . much grief for the investors might be avoided." And on the same day Mr. Whitney, blaming the public for gambling, said that Mr. Coudville and Mr. Hoover both had some responsibility for the building of the bull market before 1929 because of their publicly expressed optimism. You can take your choice.

For a Good War

If we want a good war we ought to have it soon, because, in spite of the feebleness of all the conferences, something will have to be done about disarmament, and the chances are that the most effective and the most realistic weapons will be those that are made in the United States. We have a high moral purpose before the war begins. Within eight months the Great War started, one of the most important papers in England (the London Times, I think) announced in its own words that England had not gone to war to protect Belgium—meaning better off because we had several years in brief, but America was not, which, I believe, was really said at heart.

A Good Principle

Wars have been fought on account of pigs and sausages, and in spite of the fact that the League of Nations was created, we have not been able to agree on a principle for a change? And in particular, since we cannot agree on any principle, we must go to war to impose our system of limitations on other peoples' actions.

We do not fully understand the American proposals to outlaw a few aggressive arms. I thought we had outlawed war entirely and agreed as the means to achieve this end. But the American proposals have been carried farther, since they are not likely to be carried to the League of Nations. Let all aggressive arms be outlawed and let the nations agree that in case of war they will be allowed only the major cities and great cities, which will begin by abandoning the major cities and great cities, which will begin by abandoning the major cities and great cities.

Who's Ox Has Horns?

The hard-headed Tardieu did not limit himself to defensive weapons in his reply to Mr. Wilson. He said that the American suggestion means only that we want to disarm France. They have the means to do so, and we have the means to do so. They have the means to do so, and we have the means to do so. They have the means to do so, and we have the means to do so.

Bringing in the League

M. Tardieu predicts that for every cannon abandoned another will be invented. Americans that will be pocket cannons and pocket airplanes. He thinks that though there will be beaten into swords, the modern version being tractor tanks. His own solution is as mysterious as any other. He wants to keep on making armaments, but concentrating them where they will do the most good. In his opinion, this would indicate a cache of bazookas known only to the League of Nations. This plan has the advantage of keeping the arms manufacturers busy and of bringing the League of Nations into every war that occurs.

The French and the Americans and all the other nations make up for their bad manners at these conferences by one signal act of courtesy. Not one of them has suggested that this way to get rid of war is to get rid of the cause for war. That would be bad manners, indeed.

At Relief Center

With the Candid Camera

By CANDID CAMERA
The trouble of the needy folk of Boston are heard by the staff and staff of the officers of the Public Welfare, with headquarters in the Chariton Street House. More than 100 persons are employed by this city department. Many of them are visitors. They check claims for aid. But for now we will just meet some of the persons at headquarters.

My first "shot" was at Walter V. McCarthy, secretary of the relief center. He has charge of the welfare department office. He was discussing a case over the phone when I walked in.

LEWIS LEADS IN RELIEF BOND ISSUE FIGHT

Washington April 16 (U.S.)—Senator Lewis, Democrat, led by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, who has easily failed the administration for its failure to finance public construction.

Leaving a scheduled meeting in the Senate, Senator Lewis attacked the administration for its failure to finance public construction, according to the Republican members of the Senate. The administration is accused of having failed to finance public construction, according to the Republican members of the Senate.

He was supported by Senator Bailey (D) North Carolina, who made a speech attacking the administration. Both Bailey and Senator Copeland (D) New York urged emergency bond issue as the only way for immediate relief.

They also urged that Congress should pass a law authorizing the issue of $100,000,000 in emergency bonds.

That the trading fraternity was satisfied to go home for the weekend with a clean slate. While profits on the lower side were of meager proportions, bull operators are well pleased with the easy progress prices made on the upside. They cannot but feel the latest turn, without the aid of spectacular news, is on a firmer base than the hectic upsurge of the last two years.

When speaking of the new turn in the stock prices traders are frank to admit they allow no reason to father their thoughts. As matters now stand a setback to the uptrend is not only possible but probable.

STOCKS' RISE CHECKED, WITH BONDS FIRM

New York, April 16 (AP)—Immigrants who are unable to find jobs in their own countries are flocking to New York since Eisenhower was elected to continue their persecution through a third country, although the headmaster of the school is feeling the unpleasant effect of the Federal Reserve credit expansion program.

Trading centers were closed for a break upon the option in the stock market of the past few months, especially a technical rebound and to put something in the way of a counter to the effect of the Federal Reserve's further

But PONT gave ground today to a new publication of its first quarter earnings statement showing net income of $1.2 million, or 26 cents a share, under the $1.64-a-share requirement. General Motors at the same time was steady.

Early flurry in the car market under the leadership of Aetna and Union Pacific petered out on publication of Aetna's poor earnings statement for January and February. The up-liners were steady, aided by firms in the insurance, gas and electric and oil sectors. General Gas & Electric and Peoples Gas Northwest led the ropers in another mild, domestic market.

United Income From Columbia Gas Stock

Columbia Gas Stock
Doubt over United Corporation's ability to equal its 1931 record showing the year has been projected by the ledger on what is announced in the Columbia Gas common dividend payment. The company owned 2,473,336 shares of the latter issue at the end of 1931 on which the dividend income during the year amounted to $1,513,671.

United Will Receive 27,271 Shares Preferred

Three months ago, Columbia voted to substitute dividends in $ preference stock for the cash dividend. The initial payment under the changed policy amounted to 27.27 cents a share in preference stock. This week the payment was cut to 25 cents a share payable in preference stock. Under Columbia's revised method of payments, United will receive a total of 27.27 shares of the $5 preference stock in the current year, on which a cash $5 dividend amount

Steel Common and

Previous Wage Cut

An interesting study is presented by the market record of U. S. Steel common during the last year of a nation-wide wage cutting in the industry. In 1921 the corporation reduced wages approximately 12 1/2 per cent in May, about 10 per cent in July and 13 per cent in August.

Steel common made its low price for that year in June. The present retrenchment program brought the first wage cut last September. The next official step in this direction is expected to be taken early

WEEK ENRADIO ATTRACTIONS UNUSUAL

Variety music current program offerings scheduled on the air between now and Monday.

SAULTING SOUZA
Band music extraordinary comes through to New England from Washington, D. C. tomorrow night and our own Walter Smith will be one of the featured soloists.

SHINING STARS
Jacqueline Logan, stage star with "Coast to Coast," the radio stars comedy opening at the club on Monday night is being interviewed (WEEI) at 4:15 tomorrow afternoon. Ivy Sawyer and Joseph Bentley also will be featured for Jimmy Jenson (WAAB) in the evening at 9 o'clock.

If all three do as well as Leo Grogan did last night (WEEI) and tuning in will have been worth while. Dramatic dialect is surely heard hereabouts until fall.

Two more stage headliners take "mike" turns when Ken Murray, the comic, brings Mary Brian up before WEEI sound booth tomorrow afternoon (11 to 1:30) during the last Larry Flint RKO hit being heard hereabouts until fall.

CHOICE CLASSIC
Helen Barr, Yankee Network soprano, plays the prima donna role during an air adaptation of Victor Herbert's immortal "Madame Butterfly." The famous opera is arranged in miniature tonight (WABC) under personal direction of Fred A. Bishop, who has produced the real thing before footlights many times in days gone by.

Irene Bordoni and her son made one peach of an addition to Rudy Vallee's offerings on Wednesday night on old WEEI waves.

TALENTED TOTS
Geraldine (Don't catch her last name) is undoubtedly the most talented radio "find" made by Paul Whiteman during his nationwide audition tour. Not only that, but she has the justly famous old-fashioned imagination! Her contribution to the big show program last night sort of eclipsed his astounding musical music. Whiteman has been looking for a new baby star for some time, and it would certainly seem he has one in Geraldine.

There's nothing sure besides death and taxes—unless it is who'll win a wrestling match.

Milestones on the path to civilization:
BERLIN—Under a new Federal decree merchants are forbidden to hold closing-out sales unless they are actually going out of business.

FEARLESS AMERICAN

This is J. Gutzum Cadwallader, militant reformer, who is in Washington advocating legislation to prohibit the sale of two-pants suits. "It is self-evident," argues Cadwallader, "that the mere possession of a two-pants suit indicates a self-consciousness and a willingness to lead a double life."

"And the height of precaution," postcards A. H. Westberg, "is searching Gandhi for concealed weapons."

WILL someone be considerate enough to loan a refund lady $500 for several years to enable her to prepare herself for a substantial financial future? Call R.R. Apt. 9.

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Sympathetic Aunt Bella—
Is there any factual basis in my good woman, for the assumption that you are one of the outstanding figures of the day?
—Curtis

Ans.—"Curtis," indeed! Sir or Madam ("Mr. pertinence") not only has a nerve but is somewhat misanthropic. Aunt Bella, as you are one of them worst cases to zero and she is retiring for the day, a scotch stout!

—Aunt (Happy Medium) Bink.

Milestones on the path to civilization:
LOS ANGELES—As long as merchants refuse to honor checks won from slot machines installed on their premises, the machines are perfectly legal and cannot be confiscated, according to Deputy County Counsel S. O. Frichard.

BULL-ONEY
Address before N. Y. Press Study Club:
There are some actors who have gone to their graves because of the humiliation they suffered at the hands of the dramatic critics.
Representative through.
"Personally," says Genevieve the kitchen cynic, "I'm afraid the Federal economy drive will stop at making the first chance it gets."

Song of the Censor

A censor at the bathing beach said, "Girls, come rather near; I'll tell you what's permissible in bathing suits this year: The front may be cut fairly low, but not too low, you see? In back, you may effect a deep and generous, open V. Extending to the waist line. Perhaps so inch below. Just use your own good judgment. Now far you ought to go? But when you're going swimming."

Just bear this thought in mind: I'll save you in the hoosegow if you wear the front behind."

Parents very seldom feel much gratitude. When children develop a nonchalant attitude.

Our scientific engineers are reported to be working out a system by which heat may be obtained from mechanical refrigerators. But if the boys are really serious they should first consult with apartment house janitors—and find out how they get refrigeration from steam radiators.
